A personal approach

At P H Warr we take our project management service personally. We treat our clients' projects as our own and use all our skills, technical expertise and effort to ensure that 'our' projects are successful.

The P H Warr project management team is unique in that we offer both a strategic and a detailed approach to projects. This team structure enables us to form an in-depth understanding of our project and client needs. We aim to get involved in the detail of a project but without losing sight of the strategic overview.

Our project managers are proactive problem solvers. We understand that to apply direction, we must listen and understand, allowing us to communicate and negotiate effectively with clarity and firmness.

We use leading edge techniques and processes to clarify, define and articulate project objectives before developing a clear path for delivery.

Project Management services

We provide project management covering all aspects of property development from inception to completion and subsequent occupation or sale.

Typically, our project management service includes:

- Management and co-ordination of the development process including site location, feasibility studies, guidance in relation to funding, procurement and development strategies.
- Maximising land value through the planning process.
- Advising clients regarding the appointment of and subsequent management of the professional team.
- Co-ordination of the construction phase and management of the completed scheme in providing support services through the life-cycle of the property.

In addition, using our skills, knowledge and experience coupled with the latest project management software we are able to assist clients who have complicated build, refurbishment, facilities management and maintenance programmes.

We work alongside facilities and development teams to develop, advise, manage and monitor a 'master programme' of proposed works.

Tailored Project Management solutions

We offer different levels of project management for property and building schemes, large and small. This allows us to advise our clients based on their precise requirements. To find out more about our approach and to discuss your project management needs please contact:
